books for from 25 to 50 copies daily. Out-sells any other book ten to one. Agents never made money so fast. The book sells itself. Experience not necessary. Failure unknown. All make immense profits. Private terms free. GEORGE STINSON & Co., Portland, Maine.

"I will not earthly excuse for offense, he got out of bed, walked three miles to the house of a friend and called him out and stabbed him to the heart. He returned retraced his steps to his home and returned to bed and slept soundly until morning, his bloody knife lying on a chair by his bedside. He made no excuse, no counsel as crime and whomever arrested had no excuse for it. From that day the constable put hands on him and up to this hour he has not spoken except when forced to. I have several times had to threaten him with the strap to make him answer my questions."

"Does he mate with any one?"

"No; he comes and goes as if alone in this great prison. I cannot imagine any inducement could be held out to him to make him talk. He is a prisoner of war. He shuns all of us as if we were poison. During all the years he has been here he has never asked a favor of any sort."

"Is he ever sick?"

"Once in a great while, but he never complains. He would die in his tracks before he would ask to see the doctor; he has fainted away at his work-bench, but he is in the delirium of fever, and he has not asked for anything."

three shillings and two pence for Elizabeth's ear. In the first year of Elizabeth's being a queen, a horse's growth was taxed three shillings and sixpence; but the law was too absurd to be enforced. The duty imposed upon beads by Peter the Great was a ruble (about three shillings).
This tax met with a fate similar to that of Elizabeth's and was soon canceled.

The development of the beard, as well as the hairiness of the body, differ not merely in different races, but also in families of the same race. In India and a portion of Asia beards prevail until we go beyond India, when gradual beards disappear, as is the case with the Siamese, Chinese and Japanese.

There is not one coachman driver in ton, who, if a horse stumble or is over-frightened by anything, but will immediately grab the reins with the whip, the very worst thing he can do. It will make the horse far more frightened the next time. Every owner of a horse should forbid his driver to use the whip in such cases and if he persists in doing it should dismiss him. Horses are ruined by sharp harsh treatment, but may be cured.
